

This week, I have learnt about arrays and how to assign values to them. I have also learnt we use character arrays to store strings in C. The `strcmp()` function is used to compare the equality of strings in C as opposed to the `'=='` operator in a few other languages.