

I learnt how to create functions and use them within my main code. I understand they are used to repeat blocks of code throughout a program. I also learnt how to make a menu system for users which then executes the required function dependent on the logic of the program.