I have learnt how to use loops to continually gather inputs until an "exit command" has been entered (i.e. a negative number). I have learnt more about decisions by using switch-case statements. The extension work also taught me about input validation by using a password input scenario.