I have learnt the basics of C such as types of variables (e.g. int, double, float), how to initialize them and how to use scanf to store user inputs into these variables. I then completed all exercises (including extras) to consolidate this knowledge and make functioning programs.